

Pre-Reunion Options

If you're planning to arrive in Colorado Springs on or before Sunday morning, September 20, here are a couple of sites you might enjoy. These sites are not included on our official tour, so this is just an extra activity. We'll be traveling in our own vehicles and participation is completely optional. Hopefully we will have enough vehicles to share rides.

Sunday Morning

Liz and I are planning to visit the Dragonman's Museum. An iconic attraction in Colorado Springs, covering about 260 acres filled with military history from the Korean War through Iraq and Afghanistan. There are tons of uniforms, weapons, vehicles, and memorabilia. It's often considered one of the best private military museums around.

There is only one guided tour on Sundays starting at 10 AM sharp.
Cost $20 (cash only)

If you plan to join us please let us know ASAP. If our group is larger than 30, they will plan to have extra guides on hand.

More info: <https://dragonmans.com/>

Sunday Evening

We plan to head over to the Flying W Ranch to enjoy dinner and a show. Located at the foot of Pikes Peak, the ranch is a living symbol of western heritage, embodying the romantic spirit of the American Old West.

They have golf carts available if you need help getting from the parking lot to the lodge, and scooters can be used around the grounds. There's a partially paved path and wide gravel trails, which should be manageable for most.

Cost: $67.01 (tax included)

If you plan to join us please let us know ASAP. Our plan is to make reservations so we can all sit together.

More info: <https://flyingw.com/>